POLICE MATRON RESCUES GIRLS AS THEY HESITATE ON VERGE OF THE DOWNWARD PATH

Many wayward girls of Washington gazing into the windows of department stores late at night, with the bustling business streets of the day before deserted and still, have turned quickly around with fear at a sudden tap on the shoulder. It is, instead of finding a grateful policeman towering above them and hearing the surly question, "Hadden't you better get home now, girl?" they discover a kindly faced, mild eyed lady, clad in the navy blue of the police department regarding them with gentle solicitude, and asking the motherly question, "Don't you think it is about time to go home, child?"

The lady is Mrs. Farling, of the Metropolitan Police Department, one of the first policewomen appointed in the United States.

The question is usually followed with another.

"Does your mother know that you are here, little girl?" And in nine cases out of ten mother does not.

BELGIAN STEAMER ASHORE.
New York, Sept. 11.—The New York office of the United States Coast Guard today received word from Capt. Del Bosque that the Belgian steamer Albatross had been wrecked on the coast of Newfoundland.

IS KILLED IN FRANCE.
Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 11.—William Rodgers Beal, son of the attorney for the Carnegie Steel Company, has been killed in France, according to word received here today.

GUARD HEAD DIES.
Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 11.—Gen. Thomas J. Stewart, administrative head of the Pennsylvania National Guard, died today.

GAY WHITE WAY MAY BE DIMMED

Electric Lights on Seventh and Ninth Streets Will Be Reduced.

Seventh and Ninth streets this winter will no longer form the nucleus of Washington's "Gay White Way." Electrical signs, electrical display advertising and street illuminations of all sorts will be cut to a minimum, to conserve electric power, should suggestions coming from officials in touch with the fuel situation be acted on by the coal administration.

A sweeping order such as may be issued to conserve fuel through the elimination of wastage in electric power would probably cut out street display "ads" from the little one-light "display" over the corner fruit stand to the big "ice cream displays" that need thousands of lamps to run them to their full capacity.

The streets that are now attracting the biggest night pleasure seeking crowds will dwindle down in brilliance to a par with the thoroughfares in the residential sections of the city, it is predicted. With only necessary street lights and window lights in operation, the pleasure grounds would lose much of their fascination to the crowds that frequent them now.

KERENSKY BESIEGED

stead, is now the brains of the Korniloff counter-revolution. Korniloff, appointed to succeed Korniloff, is cut off from rail connections to army headquarters and, therefore, has not been commissioned.

Replies to fervent appeals sent out by both sides show the Cossack general by far the more powerful. For the provisional government the three main pillars are the soldiers and workmen's council, Gen. Stenbitchoff, commander of the southwestern armies, and the Baltic fleet, whose commander has telegraphed absolute loyalty to Kerensky.

Strength of Korniloff
Korniloff, on the other hand, boasts of the support of virtually all the forces—military and political—that spell power, influence and promise of relief from the chaos. Gen. Alexieff, former chief of staff, whose judgment counts more with the overwhelming masses of Muscovite fighters than that of any other man, has turned down an offer from Kerensky to head the movement to "quell Korniloff's rebellion." Gen. Kaledine, idol of the Cossacks, whose chief commander he is, has threatened "serious trouble" unless the government promptly submits to Korniloff.

Tonight it seems as if the first clash would come near the point, eighty miles to the east of Pskoff, where Nicholas, en route to Petrograd, was reduced from Czar of the Russian Empire to Czar of the Cossacks, before striking further, will demand that Kerensky, dictator, abdicate, so he, Korniloff may become Czar without a crown.

If Kerensky is not dead there seems no hope of compromise.

Old Sol to Show Face Today and Rout Chills

Warmer weather today is the pleasing promise extended to shivering inhabitants of the District in the weather forecast last night which briefly stated that a "rising temperature" would follow the cool spell which, for the past few days, has held the population of Washington in its chilling grasp.

ALLEN TO HANG AT JAIL TODAY

Condemned Man Still Hopes for Another Reprieve Before Time Set.

Despite the prayers of his little motherless boy and the almost frantic efforts of the wife of the superintendent of the District prison to stay his execution, James F. Allen, colored, some time this morning will pay the penalty for the murder of his wife, unless little short of a miracle of mercy prevents the hanging.

"Hung by the neck until dead, some time between the hours of 10 in the morning and 2 in the afternoon of Wednesday, September 12," reads the court order that is about to be carried into effect after five reprieves have failed to bring about a pardon or a commutation of sentence.

Condemned Man Calm
With but a few more hours to live, with the full knowledge that nothing but a miracle can aid him, Allen, the condemned man, late last night was more calm and composed than he has been for days, according to Superintendent L. F. Zinkham, of the prison. Allen still holds hope for a stay in his sentence.

After making an appeal to the White House authorities late yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Zinkham, who has been working for a pardon for Allen, retired early, almost ill from her day's work.

SENATE APPROVES MINOR WAR BILLS

Upper House Begins to Clear Docket Before Adjournment.

Taking advantage of the lull succeeding the passage of the war revenue bill, the Senate yesterday began to clear the calendar of less important measures. Some fifteen were passed, including:

Creating additional judgeships in the Federal Circuit—Senator Hollis.

Allowing the President to control the manufacture, distribution and use of explosives—Senator Walsh.

Authorizing the President to declare a day of prayer for American soldiers and sailors—Senator Myers.

Renatulating American soldiers now fighting in armies of our allies—Senator Chamberlain.

Senator McCumber introduced a bill positioning soldiers at a minimum of 30 months, their widows $30, and each of their children below 16 years, $6.

Colored posters advertising the new issue will be placed in the waiting room of every railroad station in the country.

Through these posters the Treasury Department will be able to reach the millions of persons who use the railroads.

Register 659 Recruits
To Army in One Day
After a decline covering nearly two weeks, the regular army gained 659 recruits for the day, Monday, according to reports received today.

The total enlisted since April is now 267,882.

The individual States' enlistments yesterday were: New York, 85; Pennsylvania, 80; Illinois, 66; Washington, 58; Ohio, 55; and Michigan, 48. Other States made around 30 and less.

The States individually showed a creditable increase over the preceding two days.

To Pay Allied Officers
For Services in U. S.
The United States does not intend to accept military training aid suggestions from foreign officers as a charity. Chairman Dent, of the House Military Affairs Committee, yesterday introduced a bill authorizing the Secretary of War to reimburse the officers and men for expenses they incur on detachment with American forces.

DELAY OCCURS IN RAIL PLANS

District Contingent of National Army Will Be Called Sept. 26.

It will be September 26 before the boys of the District will start on the first lap of the journey, designed to land them eventually "over there."

There will be 42 registrants in the first group to entrain for Fort Meade, comprising 10 per cent of the District's quota of 1,922 men.

They will be sent in five divisions. The first group will entrain on September 26, and on succeeding days quotas of 20 per cent will be put upon the rails for the contingent camp.

The new orders were issued by the provost marshal general yesterday, and the September 19 date was advanced because the railroads were unable to move the troops according to the original schedule.

STOP RATE ADVANCE ON MEAT AND STOCK

Suspension of Proposed Schedule Is Ordered by I. C. C.

The Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday ordered railroad rates east of the Mississippi to be suspended, and that the proposed increased rates on shipments of livestock and fresh meat.

The proposed schedule would become effective September 18. The commission ordered that its operation be suspended, and that it be postponed until January 13, 1918.

It was further ordered that no change in such rates be made during this period.

The order covers practically every Eastern route and its agencies. The commission will hold hearings and make investigations in the cases.

The rates would have been increased only for livestock transportation. But the commission also interstates shipments of fresh and dressed meats.

HUSBAND SEEKS DIVORCE.

Suit for absolute divorce was filed yesterday in the District Supreme Court by E. T. Blankenship against Lily Blankenship, through Attorney James O'Shea, the husband names a former boarder, who is employed in the Navy Yard, as the man responsible for the breaking up of his home.

The couple were married in October, 1906.

Corks Room Up Tight Then Turns on the Gas

Found lying unconscious late last night in his room at 54 Pennsylvania avenue northwest suffering from inhaling gas, Edward Reed, aged 35, was rushed to the Emergency Hospital, where it was said early this morning by Dr. Miller, who answered the call, that although the man was still unconscious and suffering from previous uses of alcohol, his chances for living were very good.

Fred Chamberlain, stopping at 354 Pennsylvania avenue, while walking by Reed's room last night smelled the escaping gas. He tried to enter the room and found the door fast. Chamberlain then went out and notified Policeman Tucker, of No. 1 police precinct, who after repeated efforts succeeded in breaking in the room.

Careful preparations for the supposed attempt at suicide characterized Reed's room. The door had been nailed, windows closed and keyhole and the cracks under the door and windows had been stuffed with rags. Reed had only been stopping there for a few days.

U-BOAT ENGAGEMENT

It had been mimeographed by one of his clerks. The dispatch read:

Daniels' Official Report
The Navy Department has received a report from Paris which states that the steamer Westgate reported on the 8th of September that while cruising with several other ships she was attacked by a massed force of six submarines off the coast of France on the 5th of September, the result of this attack being that two of the steamers were sunk and probably all of the submarines were lost.

Even as Secretary Daniels was handing out this dispatch, Comdr. Charles Belknap, Jr., navy censor, attached to the office of Communications, entered the office with an official dispatch in his hand. He gave it to an aide to Secretary Daniels, and walked out.

"Communications" had discovered that an error had been made by a stenographer in transcribing the original translation of the code, and had rushed a correction to the Secretary's office.

Two Steamers Sunk
The aide to whom Commander Belknap had handed the correction started to read it. It looked like the report of the attack made by the two steamers, their character and whether or not they were under convoy and what the casualties, if any, were. Commander Belknap expressed the belief of the Navy Board that such was the case, as all vessels traveling in fleets have been convoyed. It was not known, however, whether the conveying ships were American or not.

Were Not Troop Transports
It was emphatically declared that the vessels could not possibly have been American troop transports, and that the ships, their character and whether or not they were under convoy and what the casualties, if any, were. Commander Belknap expressed the belief of the Navy Board that such was the case, as all vessels traveling in fleets have been convoyed. It was not known, however, whether the conveying ships were American or not.

Men's Club Holds Social.
Henry P. Holden was the speaker of the evening at the meeting of the Men's Club last night at the Mount Vernon Place Church. Matters of interest were discussed and a social evening was enjoyed by those who attended. Refreshments were served.

Pimpily! Well, Don't Be!

People Notice It. Drive Them Off With "E-Z" Tablets

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of "E-Z" Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few times. Cleanse the blood, the bowels and liver with E-Z Tablets, the substitute for calomel—there's never any sickness or pain after taking them. Their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating. No one who takes E-Z Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" disposition or pimply face.

E-Z Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. Years have been spent to discover this wonderful remedy which has such an effective result. Try them and see how much better you feel and look.

100 little chocolate-covered tablets cost 25c. Sample package costs 5c.

THIRTY-NINE DROWN IN POTOMAC RIVER

Proportionate Decrease Occurs in Fatalities for Year.

Thirty-nine deaths have resulted from drowning in the Potomac during the last fiscal year.

Thirty-nine deaths resulted from drowning in the previous fiscal year. Considering that the population of the District increased some fifty thousands in this period, there is a large proportionate decrease in the number of deaths.

The commensurate decrease is ascribed by the police largely to the added precautions taken by the department, both in the placing of additional life preservers along the banks of the river between the Chain Bridge and the Aqueduct, and in the training of policemen in the art of life saving and artificial resuscitation, which has been taking place during the last summer, under the direction of Superintendent Brunner, of the Municipal Police.

Maj. Pullman intends to follow up this work during the next year, and to make a great attempt to bring down still further the number of casualties on the Potomac.

The placard of the American Red Cross life saving corps is to be placed along the banks at every point at which the canoists and bathers will be able to see it.
